Clark refractor at Flagstaff, Ariz., and City of Mexico, examined about 200,000 fixed stars, in zone bet. 15 and 65 degrees south declination, which led to discovery and measurement of about 600 new double stars and remeasurement of some 1,400 double stars previously recognized by Sir John Herschel and other observers. Prof. mathematics, U.S. Navy, since 1899; in charge 26-in. equatorial telescope, U.S. Naval Observatory, 1899-1902; prof. mathematics, U.S. Naval Acad., 1902-03, Naval Observatory, Mare Island, Calif., since 1903; lecturer on sidereal astronomy, Lowell Inst., Boston, 1899. Commd. capt., 1913. Fellow or mem. many scien. socs., U.S. and abroad. Author: Die Entwickelung der Doppelstern Systeme, Berlin, 1893; Researches on the Evolution of the Stellar Systems, Vol. I, Lynn, 1896, Vol. II, Capture Theory of Cosmical Evolution, 1910; Researches on the Physical Constitution and Rigidities of the Heavenly Bodies, Kiel, 1904-06; Electrodynamic Wave-Theory of Physical Forces (Lynn, London and Paris), 1917; Researches on the Physical Cause of the Land and Water Hemispheres, and on the Figure of the Earth, Kiel, 1916, 1921; New Theory of the Æther, Eight Mathematical Memoirs, Kiel, 1920-26; also double star catalogues, and many contbns. on astron. subjects to tech. jours. and mags. Investigations: Orbits of about 60 double stars, 1893-1900; diameters of planets and satellites, with constants of irradiation, 1901-02; cause of earthquakes and mountain formation, under the secular leakage of the oceans, 1906-08; laws of the formation of the solar system by the capture of smaller bodies, in place of Laplace's process of throwing off, 1908-10; determination of depth of milky way at several million light-years, as held by Sir W. Herschel, thus expanding extent of the universe about 1,000 times, 1910-11; cause of the fluctuations of the moon's motion, 1916; cause of acoustic attraction and repulsion, 1917; cause of sunspots and of variable stars, 1917-21; cause of universal gravitation and of magnetism, with new laws connecting these two forces, in new theory of the æther, 1920-22; researches in transcendental geometry and the nature of space, 1923-24; New Dynamical Wave—Theory of the Tides, 1926; 8th and 9th Mathematical Memoirs on the New Theory of the Æther, 1925-27, 10th, 11th and 12th Memoirs, 1928-30; the absolute invariability of the major axes and mean motions of the planets, which generalizes the Theorems of Laplace, 1773, and of Poisson, 1808, for all powers of the masses, 1925; Wave Theory of Universal Gravitation, 1931-33. Laid new foundation for curvilinear motion; discovered new maximum-minimum function, 1943; cleared up the last anomalies in the secular motion of the moon. Discovered precession of earth's magnetic poles in 540 years under action of the sun's like poles, 1931-32; return of four longest period comets known, Aristotle, 371 B.C.-1843, 539-1882, 44 B.C.-1858, 1184 B.C.-1811, in 553.5, 1343, 1902, 2995 years, 1934; cause of the dispersion of light in reduced velocity of shorter waves in denser media, which also explains use of shorter waves in radio; new constants of the æther, showing that medium to be 277 billion times more rigid than steel, 1935; established the Wave-Theory of Solid Bodies and of the Cosmic Ray, 1936; established Wave-Theory of Least Action, as the most general Physical Law of Nature; of Gauss' Constant of Attraction in the Solar System (1809); and of Kepler's Third Law of Planetary Motion (1618), 1937; discovered cause of molecular forces in tidal stresses of 10 nearest atoms, 1938, and cause of explosive forces in same æther stresses of atoms, 1939, thus reducing all forces of nature to wave-action, under the æther's pressure of 689,321,600,000 atmospheres; new proof of Wave-Theory of gravitation, 1941, based on rigorous connection of the Lemniscata, for Polarized Light propagated through crystals, with the Conic Sections first studied by Apollonius, Kepler, Newton: the Fallacies of Non-Euclidean Geometry, which eluded the genius of Gauss, the most titanic of geometers, shown in Book VI of the Wave-Theory, 1941. Made notable discoveries in the Lunar Theory and Higher Mathematical Analysis, Books VII and VIII, 1942, 43. Address: Vallejo, Calif.
